Dept. of Justice, Office of Community Oriented Policing Services, 2006 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)72446526 Subject: Burglary protection -- United States. Excerpt: . . . The Problem of Burglary at Single-Family House Construction Sites 3 Factors Contributing to Burglary at Single-Family House Construction Sites Understanding the factors that contribute to the problem of single-family house construction site burglary will help to frame local analysis, to determine good effectiveness measures, to recognize key intervention points, and to select appropriate responses. The following factors make such construction sites particularly vulnerable to burglary. Construction Material Costs The high cost of construction materials induces some people - including some contractors - to steal materials from construction sites in order to reduce their own building costs. In recent years, there has been a dramatic increase in the price of construction materials. For example, from January 2003 to May 2004 the price index of 11 key construction materials more than 8 doubled. Thus, the local home building economy affects construction site burglary rates. Local material shortages, including those caused by natural disasters, will similarly affect the nature and amount of construction site property 9 stolen. Lax Builder Practices Certain practices by building contractors can contribute to burglary. For example, delivering appliances to a site before they can be secured in the house increases the opportunity for burglary. Lax tool tracking practices can also lead to theft. Builders and contractors may save time by not checking tools in and out daily, but a lack of control and oversight can give employees the impression This item ships from La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
